REMINISCENCES OF OUR PIONEER DAYS

By Men Who Laid the Foundation of Our County.

To those who have been over quick to attribute to Judge Fitzpatrick ulterior motives in his attempt to secure for Redwood City the benefits of local street railway transportation, it may be an interesting bit of information to know that this is not his first attempt to secure for the city the benefits of needed public utilities. As far back as the spring of 1887 that gentleman headed an effort to secure for Redwood City a much desired public lighting system, not for his own benefit but for the general good of the public. Unfortunately for the town, however, nothing came of the effort. Early in the year parties from San Francisco approached the public spirited citizens of the town with a proposition to establish a gas plant. It was represented that these people were in possession of a method by which illuminating gas could be manufactured at what at the time was considered a very economical figure and desired to establish themselves here, their only demand being that they be assured a franchise, which they were willing should be granted in the name of a local company. Pleased with the prospect, Judge Fitzpatrick secured the cooperation of George W. Lovie, Claus Hadler and Thomas Hind, and these men united in an application to the town trustees for a franchise. The application was received with favor and a committee of the trustees appointed to consult as to the terms desired. Before this committee could report, however, it was discovered by the men who had lent their assistance to the enterprise that the San Francisco promoters were not likely to be in a position to fulfill their promises and the application for a franchise was withdrawn.

History would seem to indicate that, whether intentionally or not, the founders of the present efficient organization which for the past year has been doing so much for the promotion of the general interests of San Mateo county, were guilty of the literary crime of plagiarism in the selection of the name of their organization. This may seem a rather hard charge to lay at the door of these public spirited men, yet it is but the naked truth. A review of the events of the county a little more than 20 years ago show that the "San Mateo County Development Association" is far from a new thing, that in fact an organization with that name and having for its object practically identical purposes with the present organization was in active existence. To be exact with historical facts, the first, San Mateo County Development Association was organized in Redwood City on the 25th of June, 1887. Prior to this date two or three preliminary meetings had been held at which the project had been generally discussed and a committee appointed to propose a constitution and bylaws. This was followed by the meeting on the date mentioned at Germania hall, when the organization was completed. The first president of the association was T. G. Phelps, while Geo. C. Ross was elected as the first secretary. Among other provisions of the constitution was the appointment by the directors of a committee of seven, whose duty should be "to procure as far as possible, cheap fares to and from this county," and to collect and disseminate information in regard to the soil, climate and business opportunities of the county. A perusal of the reports found in the newspapers of those times indicate that much active work was performed by the association, both in the line of endeavor for transportation rates and facilities and in advertising to the world the advantages of the county for the home seeker.

Nor in the present an entirely new date in the launching of other public enterprises, as witness the fact that the present is not the first time a promise has been held out that some time Redwood City might enjoy the convenience of local street railway transportation. As a matter of fact the first application for a franchise for a street railway in this city was presented to the town trustees at their meeting on the evening of December 26, 1887. This application provided for a right to operate by "horse or other power," and asked for a right to use the following streets: Commencing at the intersection of Arguello and Fourteenth streets; running thence along Arguello street to A street; thence easterly along A to Bridge; thence on Bridge street to Main; also commencing at the Pulgas line on Main street and running along Main street to Mound street and along Mound street to the Woodside road. No specified time for the life of the franchise was stated in the application, this being left to the discretion of the trustees. The applicants for this franchise were C. P. Cron, James C. Hulse, J. T. Earnest, L. A. Richards, J. J. Schriver and H. M. Covert. Seemingly the petitioners "fell down" on the proposition soon after making the application, for the records show that following the reading of the application at the meeting of the trustees its consideration was by vote laid over until the next regular meeting of the trustees but neither at that meeting nor for several months afterward was the application again mentioned, and so another bright prospect "died aborning."

THE RELIEF CORPS WILL GIVE OLD-TIME EVENT.

For auld lang syne, my dear,
We'll take a cup o' kindness yet
For auld lang syne.
Gen. George S. Evans Relief Corps is planning an entertainment that will be much enjoyed by both old and young residents of the community. The date is set for January 6th next, and while somewhat distant the ladies are actively at work on the details of their entertainment and promise an evening of enjoyment to their friends and patrons. The program will consist largely of old songs and recitations that are dear to the hearts of those who were boys and girls ever so long ago. It will be followed by a hop at which the quadrille, polka, Virginia reel and other popular features of the light fantastic of days ago will be danced. And to make this part of the entertainment the more appropriate to the occasion, the different figures will be called out by the "fiddler."

Particulars of the entertainment will be given from time to time as the arrangements progress, and in the meantime the ladies will pass out tickets for the small price of 25 cents and 35 cents—the latter charge entitles the holder to a reserved seat.

The object of the entertainment is to create a fund with which to entertain the school children who take part in the Decoration Day exercises and to provide the means of celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of the corps which takes place in February.

"WHITE REDWOOD" IS NOT A FREAK TREE.

The white redwood, one of which recently found in this county has been written of as the only tree of the kind in the State, is not a freak as thought to be, nor is it a healthy, normal growth of the sequoia. It is found in Monterey county and in other parts of California in numbers. A clump of them is to be seen not far from the town of Monterey. H. A. Green, president of the Federation of Tree Growing Clubs of America, and at the head of the Monterey Tree Growing Club, who is frequently called upon to speak before large bodies of college students and pupils of the public schools of the State, on the subject of trees, the life and origin of which he has through study and care of them gained deep and scientific knowledge concerning them, declares the white redwood to be a growth springing from the dying root system of the sequoia, the white stem and leaves due to the failure of the parent tree to any longer draw from its soil coloring matter, or phylloids, so-called. Hence the colorless state of the so-called new species of redwood which, says Mr. Greene, is for that reason short-lived and a growth that will not of itself propagate or multiply. It might, however, be made to grow from a cutting if planted at a certain time of the year under favorable conditions, but if from the cutting it is brought to a successful growth in time it will, drawing from the soil the qualities natural to it, take on the green of the native or original tree.

Nothing Wrong With 1910 Nickels.
Hundreds of inquiries from all sections of the country are being received at the treasury department at Washington, D. C., from persons who have believed recent reports that all-nickels dated 1910 are counterfeit. The reports were spread recently in the West and South and are now being circulated in the East. Occasional banks and business men much inconvenience. There are 30,000,000 nickels of 1910 in circulation, and so far as the treasury knows, all are genuine. Some of them were discolored in the mint by fumes of sulphuric acid, which gives them an unusual appearance. They are genuine, none the less.

Local Society Meets, Elects Officers and Begins Campaign Against Dreaded White Plague.

The annual business meeting of the Redwood Chapter, National Red Cross Society, was held at the home of Mrs. Robert Brown, the president, last Thursday afternoon. The officers of the society, who were all re-elected, are as follows: Mrs. Robert Brown, president; Mrs. M. E. Hanson, vice president; Mrs. J. N. Winter, secretary; Mrs. A. Hess, treasurer.

Interesting reports were made by Mrs. J. H. Mansfield and Mrs. J. N. Winter of the State meeting over which President Taft presided. Mrs. Winter also spoke of a recent visit to the Tuberculosis Sanatorium in San Francisco and told of cases of the dread disease being cared for and of the quick and effective methods being used.

Mrs. Franklin K. Lane was elected to represent the Redwood Chapter at the annual convention at Washington.

Plans were discussed relative to the sale of the Red Cross Christmas seals and an active campaign will at once be commenced for their disposal.

The money raised by the sale of these holiday seals is used entirely in the nation's fight against tuberculosis and the good that has already been accomplished can hardly be estimated. Once more, as the holiday season approaches, the people of this community will be asked to help in this great peace activity of the Red Cross, and the society is sure of a generous response. At the close of the business meeting, Mrs. Brown invited the members to be seated at the table where the beautiful decorations of holly berries were suggestive of the holiday season so fast approaching. A delicious menu was served and an hour delightfully passed in conversation.

In the meantime a merry party of ten children, who had been invited for an afternoon of frolic on the lawn of the Brown home, were royally entertained in the breakfast room. Here all the goodies that children enjoy were served and closed a happy afternoon.

Death of Jeremiah Burke.
Jeremiah T. Burke, for many years political agent of the Southern Pacific Railroad in this State, died Sunday at his home in Berkeley of pneumonia. Mr. Burke was stricken Wednesday last, but his physicians found no cause for alarm and believed the attack to be a light one. Sunday night, however, he began to weaken, and his family was summoned to his bedside. Burke was on many occasions before the Board of Supervisors here on railroad business. He was one of the ablest men in the railroad service.

EPISCOPALIANS HONOR VISITORS

Members of St. Peter's Church Tender Social Reception to Prominent Clergymen

Had it been a studied design instead of the mere element of chance, certainly no more auspicious occasion could have been selected for the reopening of the banquet hall of the Odd Fellows' building after its rejuvenation than that afforded by the dinner and reception given by the members of St. Peter's church on Thursday evening in honor of Bishop Nichols. The visit of the Bishop, who was accompanied by a number of clergymen prominent in the diocese, was purely of a social character and the members of the church utilized the occasion as a means of providing for a gathering of the people of the parish in a real family reunion. And as such it was certainly a success, for more than a hundred people allied with the work of that church gathered to give welcome to the visitors and in social reunion discuss the plans of the work of moral uplift.

While originally planned by the vestry of the church, much of the success of the affair was due to the work of the ladies of St. Mary's Guild. Under the deft hands of these ladies the large hall had been prepared for the reception of the visitors until when the guests entered they were greeted by an array of invitingly arranged tables beautifully decorated with flowers and tracings of smiles. In honor of the distinguished visitors, the courses of the dinner were served by the young ladies of St. Margaret's Guild, assisted by the young men of the League of St. John.

After the guests had been arranged at the tables, the entire gathering joined in the singing of the Doxology. With the close of this hymn of adoration and praise to their Maker, the people were seated for more than an hour discussing an inviting menu of substantial and delicious. Perhaps quite as enjoyable as the well prepared dishes served was the opportunity afforded to intersperse the meal with pleasant social converse, the seating of the guests being arranged with view to best afford an opportunity for pleasurable interchange of view and entertaining repartee.

With the service of the last course, began an hour of intellectual enjoyment, directed by Rev. J. L. Lincoln, of the Divinity School of the Pacific, who, as toastmaster of the evening, introduced the speakers, prefacing each presentation with witty and entertaining personal reminiscences.

The principal speaker of the evening was Rev. B. Chas. Gardner, Dean of the Convocation of San Jose, who for more than half an hour held the closest attention of the large audience, occasionally calling forth peals of laughter by some witty and apt reference, and again eliciting rounds of applause at some eloquent appeal to the higher sentiment of his hearers. Congratulating the ladies of St. Mary's Guild for their splendid display of taste, the reverend visitor became reminiscent and related his early introduction to the work of the ministry when as a mere lay reader he served the people of Belmont, now a part of St. Peter's parish. Then passing to the more serious consideration of the hour he urged upon his hearers the importance of the work of the church in the moral and civic training of each individual to aid in this important branch of work. Particular stress was laid upon the necessity of the church as the teacher of the moral duties of life. To a very large extent the very nature of our public school system made it impossible that this essential should be coupled with secular education, and more than ever made it imperative for the good of the community that in the home and the church the youth should be imbued with the higher duties of moral thought. Another important work of the church was the conservation of the Sabbath—the day which he designated as the day of rest, recreation and religion, the three great needs of man, the day which had its origin with the Hebrews as a protest against the excessive toil. Mr. Gardner announced himself as not opposed to the devotion of a portion of the day to rational amusement and recreation, even going to the extent of being willing to countenance a rightly conducted game of baseball. The speaker closed an address which had been listened to with the closest attention by an earnest appeal for more active support of the church in its work and more general attendance among the men of the community at its services.

The next speaker was Rev. J. William Bresham, dean of the Pro Cathedral of San Francisco, who held the enthusiastic attention of his hearers for some time, and incidentally created considerable amusement by the relation of apt anecdotes of a humorous character. Taking for his theme, "The Duties of the Christian to His Church," the speaker pleaded for a more hearty support of the church in material things and a more liberal provision for the support of its work. The closing speaker of the evening was the guest of honor, Bishop Nichols, who entertained the assembly for some time with pleasing reminiscences of his recent journeyings in other lands, interspersed with cheering reports, one of the most interesting to his hearers of which was the announcement of gracious assistance volunteered during the evening to the young ladies of St. Margaret's Guild.

In their efforts to secure a guild hall, Mrs. L. T. Montague of San Francisco, president of the associated women auxiliary organizations, Mrs. Montague was one of the visitors of the evening and learning of the efforts of the Guild, lent her encouragement by the splendid donation of $100 to their fund. After the formal adjournment of the function, an hour was spent in social reunion. Among the visiting clergymen of the diocese present were Revs. D. J. Evans of Palo Alto, A. B. Ching of Menlo Park, H. L. Foote of Santa Clara, Geo. W. Foote of San Jose, J. L. Lincoln of the Divinity School of the Pacific, and W. E. Brewer of San Mateo.

The Hog Ranchers
James Callan, arrested for maintaining a nuisance under the new ordinance at Colma, pleaded guilty in Judge McCormick's court at San Mateo. As the defendant confessed guilt and promised to move away in ten days, sentence was suspended for that period.

C. Martinehl and Joseph Ginnl are charged with the same offense and are to be tried by the same judge in a few days.

Judge Lamb of Burlingame has two cases of the same nature before his court awaiting trial.

The new ordinance places the fine on violators at not less than $250 or more than $500. It is believed that as soon as a conviction had an appeal will be made to a higher court with the object in view of keeping the legality unsettled and continue for a year, or thrown out altogether.

A prominent lawyer in San Francisco says his firm refused a $5,000 fee to keep the case before the court for a year. The defendants are represented by a San Mateo firm.

TWO MORE PIONEERS CROSS GREAT DIVIDE

Hugh McArthur.

Hugh McArthur, the well-known lumberman of Woodside, passed away at his home late Thursday evening after an illness that extended over a period of six months. The deceased was perfectly resigned and awaited the death angel's call, knowing that death would bring relief from all earthly suffering. At eight o'clock that evening, knowing that the end was near, he called his family around him and calmly bled them farewell. Shortly after he lapsed into a deep slumber and peacefully passed away. The passing was as calm and as painless as the closing of a child's eyes in sleep. Mr. McArthur was born in the Province of Quebec, Canada, 69 years ago. In 1866 he came to San Mateo county, settling at Woodside in which vicinity he spent the greater portion of his life, engaged in the lumber trade.

For several years he had charge of the Tacoma Mill Company's mill at San Gregorio and for some years he and the late G. P. Hartley were engaged in the manufacture of shingles. He was an expert lumberman and made a success of the business, accumulating a fortune and maintaining a fine home at Woodside. Mr. McArthur was a citizen of sterling qualities, honest and upright in all his dealings, and whose word was a prominent feature in all republican conventions held in San Mateo county for the past forty years. He was a charter member of Bay View Lodge, I. O. O. F. of this city. He was married to Miss Elizabeth Alsopp in 1868 and she with her three sons, George, Marvin, Henry McArthur and a daughter, Miss Belle McArthur survive him.

The funeral will take place tomorrow morning from his late residence at 10:30 o'clock. The remains will be placed on the 12:14 train for Cypress Lawn Cemetery where the interment will take place.

Thomas Knight.
Thomas Knight, one of the oldest pioneers of San Mateo county, passed away at the Huling sanitarium yesterday morning. Mr. Knight suffered a stroke of apoplexy at his ranch in the Canyona on Wednesday and immediately Dr. Taggart was sent for and he ordered the patient removed to the sanitarium where he lingered in a comatose state until death relieved him of his suffering.

Thomas Knight was born in Waldo county, Maine, April 1st, 1831, and at the age of nineteen he left his home, coming to California by way of Central America.

He made his way to northern California where he mined for five years. In 1855 he arrived in San Mateo county, where he engaged in lumbering, his first camp being near the home of Dr. R. O. Tripp in Woodside. For twenty years he engaged in lumbering and teaming and since 1880 he had devoted his attention to farming, being engaged in the operation of 200 acres of land. In various business interests he had displayed excellent judgment, enterprise and determination and these qualities have always brought him success.

Mr. Knight was united in marriage to Miss Annetta McCormick, who was born in South America, and one child, Charles E. Knight, was born to them. During his long residence in San Mateo county he had become widely known and has taken deep interest in everything pertaining to the welfare of the community. Mr. Knight was a man of robust honesty and strict integrity. His death removes a familiar figure from this section where he was so well known and liked.

His wife, Charles fills a responsible position with the Southern Pacific Company. His grand daughter, a few years ago married Leslie Johnston, son of J. F. Johnston of this city, and she is residing with her husband in Santa Cruz. Deceased was an uncle of Walter Knight, the retired stage proprietor of Woodside. The funeral will take place from the residence of Charles E. Knight in Redwood City tomorrow at 11:45 o'clock. The remains will be placed on the 12:14 train for Cypress Lawn cemetery where services will be held in the chapel and where the interment will take place.

Gets Good Postilion.
Coroner-elect, Dr. T. B. Leland of San Francisco announced yesterday that he had selected Dr. D. E. Stafford to be his autopsy surgeon when he would assume office next January. The position is much sought after for the reason that it not only carries with it a large salary but great experience in surgical practice. The doctor is a brother of Stafford brothers, the well known merchants of this city. He is a graduate of Sequoia Union High School and of the medical department of the State University and for some years was the house physician of St. Mary's Hospital. His rapid advancement in his profession is a source of pride to the people of Redwood City who have watched his career since boyhood and the honor conferred upon him by Dr. Leland is a decided mark of recognition of his ability and skill as a physician and surgeon.

Denies That Charge is Dismissed.
Judge Lampkin denies the statement that the charge against Harry Owensby of attempting to run down Ted Martinstein has been dismissed. It is reported that Martinstein has accepted $250 from Owensby with the understanding that he drop the prosecution. Such a proceeding would be contrary to law and would subject all the parties to prosecution.

Mr. and Mrs. Robin Hayne sailed for Europe Thursday, a month sooner than they had planned to. Mrs. Hayne was Miss Jane Selby, a bride of a few weeks ago.

Estates Ready for Probate
George H. Mastic has applied in the Superior Court for letters of administration upon the estate of F. C. Hagerup who died in the City of San Mateo on November 4, 1911. The estate consists of real estate and personal property located in San Mateo and San Francisco, the value of which is unknown to petitioner, but does not exceed the sum of $6000. Eugene D. Kelly has applied in the Superior Court for letters of administration upon the estate of his father, Hugh Kelly, who died at Portola on May 10th, 1900. The estate consists of the Hugh Kelly ranch at Portola. The estate is valued at less than $10,000. The heirs at law are Eugene D. Kelly and Thomas J. Kelly. LOCAL MERCHANTS
HOLD CONFERENCE
Local Board of Trade Preparing to Extend the Scope of its Activities

With considerably more than the usual number of members in attendance, the Redwood City Board of Trade, held a decidedly interesting meeting Wednesday evening. Not alone were matters of interest to the business men and commercial interests of the city given consideration, but several matters of public importance were discussed.

President H. C. Tuchsien presided and during the evening took occasion to offer some wholesome suggestions to the members. Chief among these were suggestions of changes in the constitution of the board, looking to the widening of the scope of its work. With this he would include the discussion of matters of general civic interest connected with the conduct of the affairs of the city, that the Board and its members should be in a position to advise with the city officials as to the disposition of public business. He also urged that some steps be taken to revive the interest of the members in public work that a larger attendance may be secured at the meeting, thus adding force to suggestions of this character. While finding no fault with the present city administration, he urged that the members take a more direct interest in the running of city officers, and thus aid in the securing of the best possible service. Secondly, the suggestions of the president met with approval, and the executive committee was requested to revise the constitution and bylaws of the board so as to modernize the methods of the organization and widen the scope of its work.

Secretary Kincaid presented a number of communications, one or two of which were of public interest. One of these was from the Merchants' Association of Fresno, asking the board to cooperate in securing some amendments to the present franchise tax law. Attention was called to the fact that the present law is an imposition on the purely mercantile corporations, which are now required to pay both a corporation and franchise tax, thus being subjected to double taxation. The communication was referred to P. F. Chamberlain, Guy Hull and R. F. Chilcott as a committee to suggest a plan of action.

Another communication of general interest was one from the American League of Associations of Chicago soliciting the cooperation of the board in opposing the extension of the parcels post system. The communication cited facts in support of its contention that the extension of the system beyond its present lines would be a serious injury to smaller communities. This communication was referred to a committee consisting of A. D. Walsh, G. Einstein and H. Marcus, after a discussion which indicated that the general sentiment of the members was opposed to the proposed law.

At the suggestion of D. R. Stafford of the executive committee action was taken looking to the securing of a more attractive illumination of the main sections of the city during the evening. The resolution included a request to the Board of Supervisors that the electors on the steps of the courthouse be kept lit during every evening, and the urging upon the city council of an attractive scheme for the lighting of the main business streets. Plans for the latter system were evolved after consultation with City Electrician Werdor and provided for a number of powerful lights to be suspended at intervals over the center of the streets. The section desired to be provided with these lights included Broadway from the depot to Main and Main and Broadway from the depot to Five Points. The executive committee was directed to appear before the council and urge the adoption of the plan.

Following its design of enlarged activity the board decided to endeavor to secure meeting quarters in the new city hall as soon as that building is completed.

Secretary Kincaid presented a copy of the proposed franchise for the street railway, which he stated had been referred to the board at the instance of the council for suggestions. As the document is a long one and the subject a matter of too much importance for hasty action it was referred to the executive committee to carefully consider and report at a future meeting, it being understood that the council will

In justice to our customers, as well as our selves, we the title is misleading. This we wish to rectify by the above change.

THIRTY-FIVE MILES OF MOUNTAIN SNOW SHEDS.

Thirty-five miles of snow sheds
over the summit of the Sierra Nevada mountains costing an average of $203,615 each year to maintain and to protect from fires, is the record shown from a recent compilation of the operating expenses of this important part of the Southern Pacific Lines. The average of $203,615 was reached by the use of the operating expense for the years 1907, 1908, 1909, and 1910.

On account of fires in the snow sheds the annual expense is placed at $46,565. Renewals on account of wear are placed at a little more than $67,000. The repairs to the snow sheds cost an average of more than $40,000 annually. This will be much heavier this year on account of the heavy storms of last winter.
Patrolling and watching the sheds cost $25,000 annually, and $24,000 is set against the item of fire trains.

The Southern Pacific maintains one of the most complete fire organizations in existence for the protection of these sheds.
